

Early 2017 a bright eyed and bushy tailed rabbit named Danielle O'Connor stepped into the waiting room of Meesha Aesthetics with a Pink scented resume in hand - ready to take on the world!

And lead injector Michelle said "no, I'm sorry, not at this time - we're fully staffed" - Michelle has always been very careful not to 'over-hire' to ensure our team gets the hand on experience and regular clientele needed to succeed.

BUT, Danielle never lost hope, and Michelle never lost that application. In the mean time, Danielle was working at the hospital and making Youtube make up tutorials in her spare time - trying to stay active in the beauty industry.

Between recording content for Youtube, she also recorded an audition to be on ABC's The Bachelor - she was so serious she considered moving to Jersey for a better chance at being on the show - AND she made it to the final call backs, when moments before accepting the offer to be on the show... She fell madly involve with her husband Anthony Liotta and turned down the Bachelor.

Anthony and Danielle where talking about starting a future together when Danielle's phone rang. It was Michelle, she was ready to build Danielle up from the ground up to be the best damn injector.

Danielle cried over the phone, told Anthony their future now included her career change and took the job with Meesha Aesthetics. She started her training in September of 2018 and by the end of the year she was ready for her final test - injecting Michelle.

She passed with flying colors and became a full time staff member. Not only was she learning 'basic' skills like Botox and Lip Filler - she was also planning a huge wedding - in May of 2019 she Married Anthony in New Jersey in front of hundreds of family and friends.

Now a married woman, Danielle kicked her injectable's skill set into high gear and picked up more advanced skills like Jawlines, chins, cheeks and under eyes and over time she became the empress of Mid-Face rejuvenation. Naturally restoring the glow of many, many, MANY women across the Lehigh Valley.

At one of the many peaks of her career, Danielle felt the calling to become mom and got pregnant with her first lil' nugget Isabella (or Bella for short) - She was more than happy to share her pregnancy with our clients via social media, and lamented right along side other pregnant clients about the inability to get Botox / Filler while pregnant.

She returned from maternity leave and picked up yet another skill, becoming just the 5th of our 13 injectors to learn how to do Nose Filler - and she's enjoyed crafting and re-shaping her client's profiles ever since.

It's been 5 years since she joined us, and she's come so far. We're so excited to wish her a Happy 30th Birthday and are so excited to see what the next 5 years have in store for her in terms of growth!
